Details for Piatra-Neamt

ART MUSEUM
In the year 1960, the first art collection was founded in the Archeology Museum Neamt. Only in 1980 this collection becomes the Art Museum from Piatra Neamt and it becomes a separated institution. The building in which the museum is located was built in 1930 by Italians Carol Zani and Vincenzo Puschiasis. Here we can see an exhibit of ethnographic art and traditional art (textile, ceramics, furniture) which illustrates the habits and the clothing from this area. The museum represents a panoramic vision of the evolution of art (painting, graphics, sculpture, tapestry) made by Romanian artists at the end of the XX century. In works of sculptors Ion Irimescu and Ion Jalea, painters like Gh Petrascu, Fr Sirato, N Tonitza, Corneliu Baba we can see the period between the two world wars – a period marked by the incidence of the European currents evolved in the XX century. Among the special objects exhibit here we can list the creations from the Tapestry Room that belong to Aurelia Vasiliu Gheata, born in Piatra Neamt in 1896. These tapestries are created by using a traditional technique, inspired by the traditional art and the medieval mural painting. Also, we can see paintings from the painters: Ion Sălișteanu, Iulia Hălăucescu, Dan Hatmanu, Eugen Crăciun, Simona Vasiliu Chintilă, Spiru Chintilă, Ion Gheorghiu, Corneliu Vasilescu, Ilie Boca and sculptures made by: Iulia Oniță, Nicolae Fleissig, Ovidiu Maitec and Clement Pompiliu. All these works of art talk about the Romanian art, with its different orientations and original plastic visions. (Source http://www.visitneamt.com/2009/09/the-art-museum-from-piatra-neamt/)
CUCUTENI MUSEUM
The Museum for eneolithic art Cucuteni was inaugurated in the summer of 2005 and it's the first museum for the Cucuteni art in Romania. This museum runs in the section B of the History and Archeology Museum from Piatra Neamt and it displays over 300 pieces from the Cucuteni and

Pre-cucuteni cultures – these objects are included in the category of “thesaurus object” for the national heritage. The Cucuteni culture is the last great culture with painted ceramics from Europe. The characteristic element of the Cucuteni Culture is the ceramics painted in three colors: white, red and black – this is the proof of an extraordinary sense for the color.

Photo of Cucuteni Museum, Piatra Neamt The museum has two rooms for the exhibition. In the first one, that is located at ground floor, we can see art objects represented by decorated vessels and in the second room and located at the first floor, we can see art objects figurative-plastic, anthropomorphic and zoo-morphic in all phases of development of Cultures Precucuteni-Cucuteni.

To better benefit from the existing heritage regarding the Cucuteni Culture, since 1990, 14 books have been published, several national exhibits as well an international exhibit in 1997. Here, in Piatra Neamt, there is also the International Center for the research of the Cucuteni Culture.

THE ROYAL COURT AND CHURCH FROM PIATRA NEAMT

The church from “Curtea Domneasca” Complex, with the patron of St. Joan, was built by Stefan the Great between 1468 and 1475. Together with the bell-tower it forms an architectural complex that can be seen in the center of the town Piatra Neamt, in the Liberty Market.

From what “Curtea Domneasca” Complex once was, today are preserved only few elements: the church, the bell-tower and some of the royal cellars, where there is organized the Museum from “Curtea Domneasca” Complex. The importance of this historical place will start to diminish after the ruler Vasile Lupu, when they’ll start to reorganize the entire complex and construct new buildings. In the year 1893, on the foundation of the former “Curtea Domneasca” Complex a new building will rise: The High School Petru Rares.

Right near “Curtea Domneasca” Complex we can see the church St. Ioan Botezatorul, which was built between 1497 and 1498. The building was made in the traditional architectural way of that time and it is considered a true piece of art and a great achievement. At the exterior of the church we can admire the contrast between the gray walls and the vivid colors of the bricks and glazed discs that are overlapping in a special symmetry. The church hosts an impressive collection of heritage objects, that represents important religious values like: crystal chandeliers from Boemia (1837), the Icon of the Lord Blessing the Holy Grail, the Icon of Joan the Baptist, a silver cross from the XIX century and a series of old books. The recent archeological excavations revealed a series of graves, religious objects and ornaments that stand as a proof of the importance of this place during the time of Stefan the Great. Together with the church St Joan, in 1499 the bell-tower was built. The tower has a height of 19 and it's made out of stone. It was used as a watch tower because of its location that permitted a clear view of the entire valley. The fortress near the bell-tower was built in the modern era. As an interesting fact, inside the bell-tower of the church has lived for 26 years an elder by his name Gheorghe Lazar which represents the archetype of the true pilgrim.
